Young Authors

Cadets from Mrs. Sally Fuerte's ESL class became published authors thanks to a group project.

The students wrote and illustrated their books in their entirety. Many chose to write about their places of origin. Others delved into the fictional world and offered readers scary stories.

The project took four weeks to complete.

MMA's BSA Troop 22 participated in the annual Camp Perry Camporee recently.

Spring Fling

Cadets, families enjoy weekend of fun

The Marine Military Academy Parents Organization hosted the 2019 Spring Fling April 26-27. Each Spring Fling, parents are invited to spend a weekend with their sons in warm and sunny South Texas and engage in some family activities.

On April 26, all parents and siblings joined the cadets for morning colors. The Junior-Senior Ring Ceremony happened immediately after.

The cadets spent the morning with their parents visiting teachers.

That afternoon, they enjoyed the carnival rides and games set up near the Neuhaus Mess Hall. Cadets took turns trying to hit the mark to send their DIs into the water at the dunking booth.

Food trucks provided delicious snacks while a snow cone truck became the main attraction for the cadets.

On Saturday, a number of families headed to the South Padre Island for a day of fun in the sun.

Cadets Share Memories, Autographs during Yearbook Party

Marine Military Academy released the 2019 Pass in Review at the Yearbook Party May 12. The theme for the yearbook was "Our Legacy." At the party, the cadets flipped through the yearbook pages to find photos of themselves and friends and then took turns "autographing" them. Faculty and staff also signed cadet yearbooks.

MISSION ACCOMPLISHED!

Class of 2019 ready for next chapter in life

Forty-seven young men from six different nations walked across the stage during the 53rd annual commencement exercises, May 18, at Marine Military Academy.

The event happened at Col Philip J. Yeckel Auditorium in the MMA campus. Jason Hiller, film archivist for Warner Brothers and MMA class of 2006 graduate, was the guest speaker.

Hiller encouraged cadets to take advantage of the lessons learned at MMA to forge a prosperous future. He told cadets they must continue their personal and academic development to reach their goals.

"Learning is an ever-evolving process," he said.

"Smart people become smart by asking questions," Hiller said.

"There are many people around you who want to help you. There is a wealth of experience around you ... take advantage of that," he said.

During the ceremony, the Class of 2019 valedictorian and salutatorian addressed their fellow cadets before the diplomas are awarded.

Valedictorian Trevor Roberts, of Fairbanks, Alaska, reminisced about his years at the academy. He spoke about how he became a disciplined and focused young man.

Marine Military Academy Class of 2019 members were all smiles after their graduation ceremony.

"Over time, I evolved. MMA gave me leadership and time-management skills. It gave me pride and self-confidence, but most importantly, it gave me a bond with a band of brothers," he said.

That discipline and focus helped Roberts earn a full scholarship to The Citadel. The scholarship is the only one of its kind to guarantee a commission as an officer in the U.S. Marine Corps.

Then, it was time for the diplomas. Cadets walked across the stage to the cheers of their families and fellow cadets.

The ceremony concluded with the traditional tossing of the covers (hats) by the senior class. Parents and family members from across the country and around the world were present for the event.

MMA grads leave the school knowing they are part of a unique brotherhood.

DIs, ADIs Undergo Training on New PT Drills

Marine Military Academy drill instructors, assistant drill instructors and other personnel learned the new physical training program instituted by the U.S. Marine Corps.

Marine Military Academy's staff recently underwent training on the new physical training program instituted by the U.S. Marine Corps.

The staff had to perform every activity under the watchful eye of the USMC trainers sent to teach the new PT routines.

The men ran, jumped and crawled as they learned the drills they will now teach to every cadet at the academy.

The arduous exercises put the men's stamina to the test, but they conquered every task.

The training is part of MMA's commitment to physical fitness.
